Here is a lamp which overcomes everything ever considered a weakness or a fault in Carbide mine lamps. This lamp requires no attention, once its lighted. The flame will burn as steadily as a jet of city gas. Agitating or jarring will not effect the size of the flame, even a tumble will not cause sudden increase in pressure and resultant increase in size of the flame. We are also in position to furnish carbide in any quantity desired. As we are State Distributors of this famous lamp we are in position to make very attractive prices.

A FRIENDLY LETTER

My Dear Marsh: Many days have I stood the torments of the dam and am yet unscathed. I have had such varied experiences since leaving you that even now I inventory to see if Georgia is all here. On leaving your land of "milk and honey" I enjoyed a Pullman for 34 bucks, and in Mark Twain's "Christian Science" was soon absorbed, as the train rolled toward the sea; (say if you, or relations ever dreamed of becoming an Eddytto don't read that book) I had just reached "Science" and had heard a tap on shoulder brought me to life. "I'll make this bed" said a black porter, "so git out." I gave the porter one of my sidwinder glances and informed him that I was not yet in the humor "to get ter do it" and as an expression as of the "geuvung" angel, observing which I reluctantly slid out and in due time was really just to bed. The porter came two things. First, never next to the tip porters in advance, (then I could have read "till blind) and never try to break the "system" without a peevish nolesun. Rolling into Los, I hid me to the Rosslyn—(300 rooms). The clerk looked me over, winked at the bellboy and after his little whistle I followed through a labyrinth of hallways, alleys, bowers and closets, would have given me many pointers for his dungeons until a crib was found, he thought quite suitable. Not I, and selfish my grip vanished. I sat now at the Nocturn and very comfortable. You will recall your kindly admonition "to touch not, etc." which truly I have so far observed, but I'll not vouch for results much longer.

Wine was served at my first meal, and with determination and dramatic voice I roared, "take that away." "Wee wee monsigner," the French dispenser murmured and I could see him sulk and shiver like Daniel when in the lions' den. The following day as an old friend whispered, "L's have one." I was far from this country of the "L's" and I was not to be excused. The third day finds me faltering—I have passed and re-passed the "L's of life" but never without gazing wistfully in and as I sat my lips, I bowed down and exulted all the dry spittle drawn or forced I seem to have a heavenly taste of (course imagined) like unto the "nectar which Jupiter kept in his gob." Oh Marsh, why did I ever tempt us with that stuff, and then drop the line? I'd give three pesos (on the fly) for just one quaff. Dropping that, listen. In the evening I took my "L's" and I was not to be excused.
